"HOW ABOUT YOU?"

(G. D. UPSON.)

Are you a loafer, or are you a "hiker?"
Are you a worker, or only a "piker?"
Are you doing your share in the game?
It's all very well to let other folks grind,
It's all very well to just tag on behind,
But don't shove YOUR load on the other man's mind;
The question is, "HOW ABOUT YOU?"

Are you progressive, or just a "stand-patter?"
Are you a coacher, or are you a "batter?"
Are you talking or playing the game?
It's all very well to stand still and yell "Run,"
It's all very well—but you miss half the fun,
And you don't get a cheer when the battle is won.
The question is, "HOW ABOUT YOU?"

Are you a "live one" or are you a "crank?"
Are you a "booster" or are you a "crank?"
Are you putting YOUR share into the fund?
The word has gone out, "Fifty thousand or bust,"
So loosen the strings on your bag of "dust,"
Pay your share at the window—don't travel on "trust."
The question is, "HOW ABOUT YOU?"

The meeting of Monday noon brought in reports that $4066 had been added to the fund, and that the grand total for the campaign had been raised to the $40,000 mark. The team headed by Fred J. Evans took the pennant for the day when it reported a total of $1860. No report was received from the team under the leadership of John Ankele, for the men of this team have gone into the work with such a vim that they refused to stop to eat. Said one of the men: "Only one day more, and the job is worth missing a meal for any day."

Many reports of a pleasing nature were given by different men at the meeting. Mr. A. S. Mitchell reported that his Sunday school class had vol-eered $20 to the cause. Mr. Morgan reported $50 from the Carpenters' Union.

The Wyeth Company subscribed

$250 and the employees of the same company $100. The Sunday school of the Second Presbyterian church sent

C. G. Nevins to the meeting with a gift of $100. The congregation of Rev. Mr. Bennett's church contributed $300. The employees at the Children's Home raised $60. The New King Company subscribed $100. Mr.

D. C. Jewett of Stark Pathos, S. D., sent a gift of $100. The Licking County

Creamery made the largest gift of the day, a subscription of $500.

The following resolution was read at the meeting:

The laboring people of this city, realizing the great need of a hospital and having the opportunity of accepting the generous gift of Mr. E.

H. Everett and wife, therefore be it

Resolved, That this assembly endorse the hospital proposition and especially solicit our citizens to con-fact that the labor organizations of Newark are coming to the fore with the assistance which will carry the movement on to certain victory.

The provision which has been made in the plans for the new institutions in the interests of those who, by force of circumstances, must be charity patients is a splendid example of the spirit of the strong movement, and the basis of strong arguments in favor of the campaign. In the new city hospital the patients of means will pay for treatment, just as in the past, but provision will be made whereby those who are charity patients will receive proper medical

MEDIATORS ARE IN CONFERENCE

New York, April 29.—With U. S. Labor Commissioner Charles P. Neill and Judge Martin A. Knapp of the federal commerce court conferring again today with representatives of 50 eastern railroads, it was expected that within a week some different plan will be formulated for a settlement of the question of increased wages for the engineers.

TITANIC INQUIRY RESUMED

Washington, April 29.—Still more searching inquiry into the wireless system employed aboard ocean-going ships was planned today by the senate investigating committee. The testimony thus far is accepted as disclosing the fact that wireless operators are underpaid and are forced to work hours far too long. Chief Engineer Sammis and J. H. Bottomly of the American Marconi Telegraph Co. arrived from New York today under subpoenas issued by the committee. The anxiety of J. Bruce Ismay to get away from Washington has deepened considerably in the past few days. He has received urgent commands from England to return there as soon as possible to look after the range of transatlantic transportation, and conditions which have developed since the disaster, especially concerning labor troubles.

When Mr. Marconi was, on the stand last week, Chairman Smith asked him if he had sent and message to the Carpathia. He replied "No."

Today he said: "I would like to correct my testimony as to not sending any message to the Carpathia. On my return to New York I found one immediately wrote you a letter. The message read: 'Wire news dispatch immediately to Siascomet or to any naval boats. If this is impossible, ask captain to give reasons why no news dispatches are allowed to be transmitted (Signed) Marconi.'"

Mr. Marconi said he received no reply and none of his help received an answer.

FIRE AT PIQUA, OHIO.

Piqua, April 29.—Originating from defective wiring in the cellar, fire today destroyed some dry goods store of Mesall & Jones, causing a loss of $23,000. Smoke and water did $3,000 additional damage to adjoining stores.

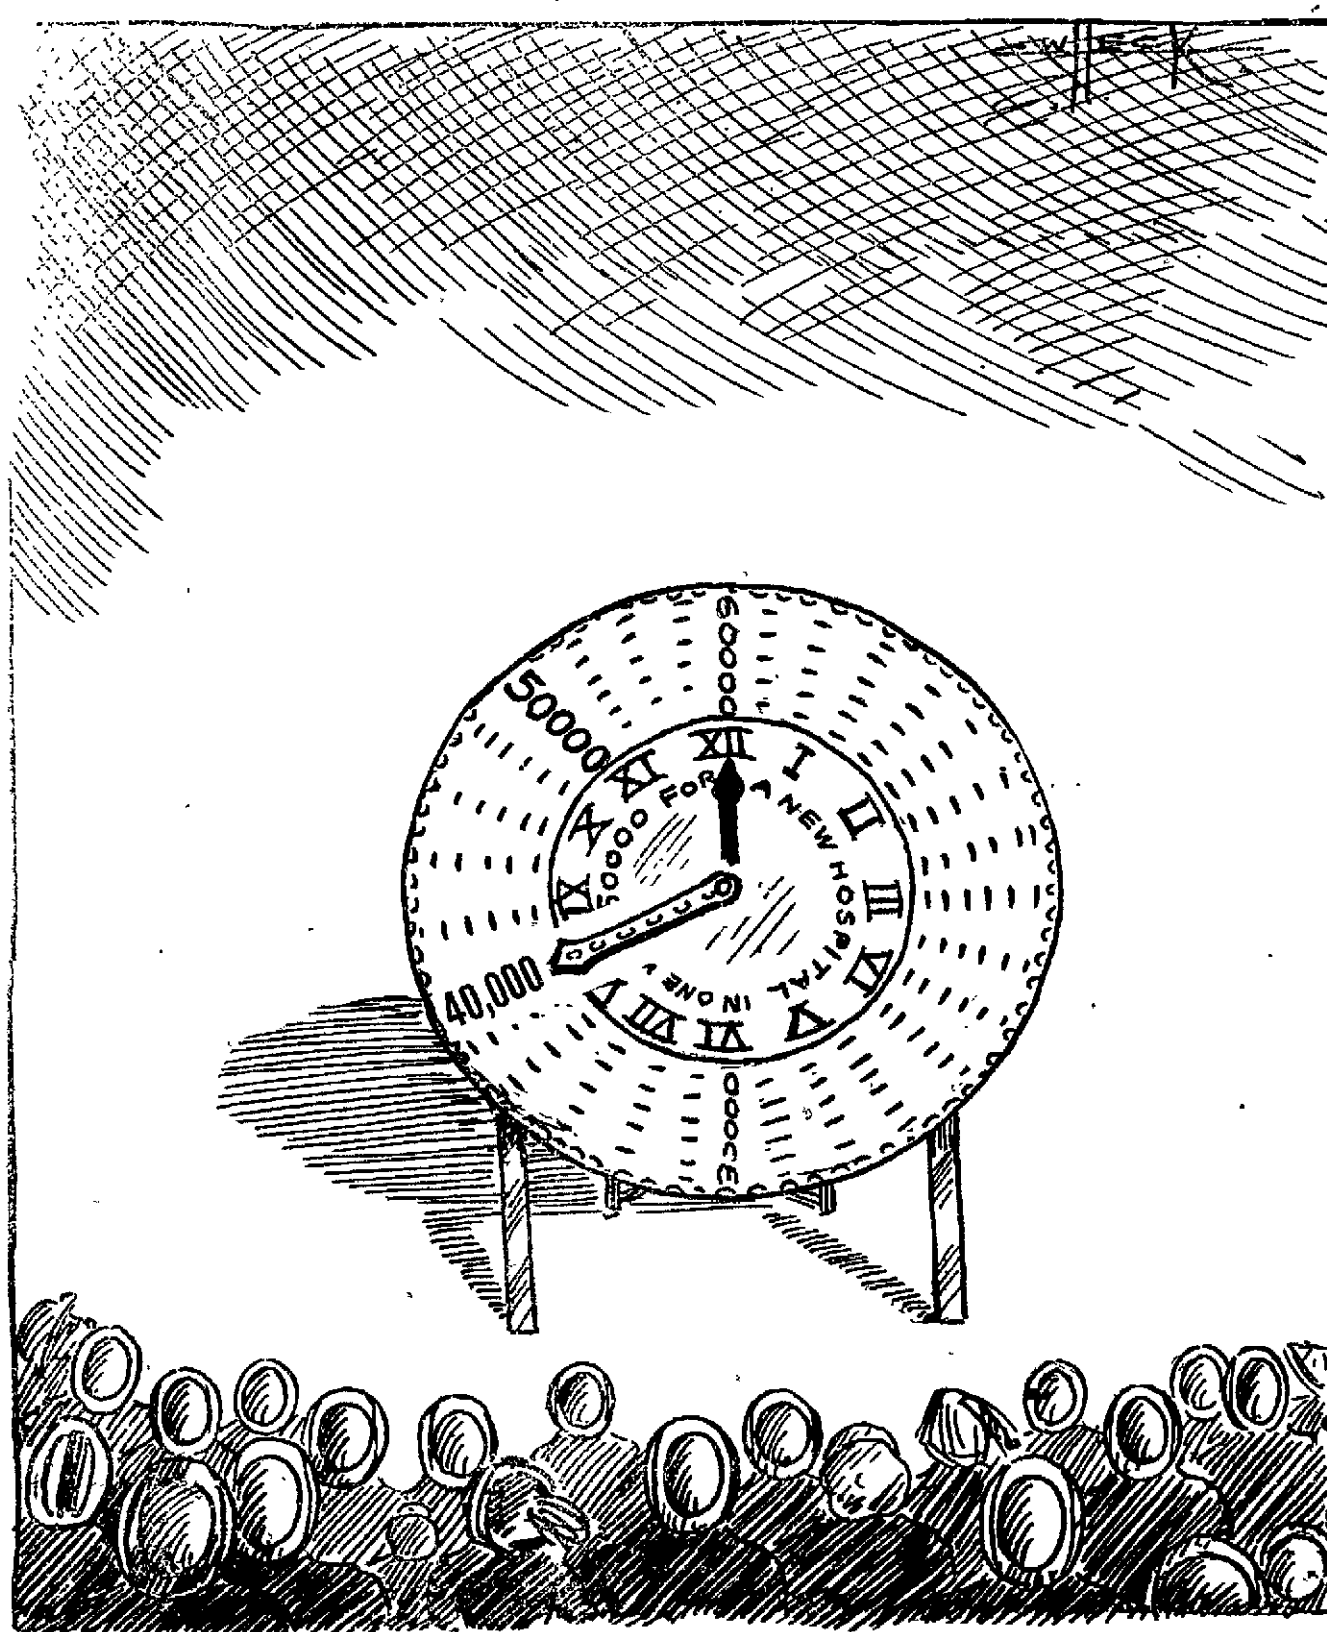

PENSION BILL TO BE PASSED DURING WEEK

Washington, April 29.—It is believed here that an agreement has been reached by the conference committee of the Senate and House on pension legislation, and that a bill will become law. Early this week it is expected that the conference committee will report an agreement on a bill carrying about $30,000,000, according to the estimate of the Pension Bureau. It is reported today that the committee has agreed to retain Section 2, which is the disability sections, as it passed the House with one slight amendment. This section as amended, pensions a certain class of soldiers unfit for manual labor at the rate of $30 a month, without regard to length of service; that is, soldiers do not have to have served 90 days. The section excluding soldiers with an income of $2,400 a year, was stricken out, so that all soldiers, regardless of income, will be beneficiaries of the bill. It is also agreed to add a section allowing an attorney's fee of $2 for every increase and $5 for every original application. The committee did this because the bill is so complicated that it is thought the average soldier cannot make out a proper application, thereby causing great delay.

MOORE ANSWERS MAYOR BAKER ON VIEWS OF WOODROW WILSON

Facts Referred to That Should be Made Publicly Known Before Mr. Wilson is Seriously Considered as a Presidential Candidate.

Columbus, O., April 29.—Resenting the utterances of Mayor Newton D. Baker in his recent open letter to Gov. Harmon, Edmund H. Moore, superintendent of insurance and Ohio manager of the Harmon campaign, has addressed a letter to Mayor Baker, defending himself against the attacks.

Moore insists that he has tried to avoid a personal controversy with Baker, insists that he has never been accused of being deceitful or a coward, and charges that Baker has broken pledged to Gov. Harmon, after having repeatedly asked for and been given political favors at the hands of the governor.

The letter to Mayor Baker follows: "In a recent open letter, you charge that I have been 'stealthily disseminating evil reports and distorted and unjust views of Woodrow Wilson, and, politely classing me as 'a scheming and crafty person,' you say that, by 'distorted whisperings, I have charged, first, that Gov. Wilson is prejudiced against the Roman Catholic church, and, second, that Gov. Wilson is hostile to immigration and holds in low esteem' European immigrants."

"I have endeavored, as far as possible, to avoid a personal controversy with you, but every honorable man owes it to himself to resent an imputation of this character."

"While I admit the possession of many faults, I do not believe that either cowardice or deceit can be numbered among them. I have heard, however, that the political style book of 1912 highly recommends these adornments, as entirely fashionable, to be worn with a surfeit of double-dealing and ingratitude, beneath a cloak of political purity."

"When I learned that you were about to break your pledge of a year ago, I went to Cleveland, and in your office met, by appointment, you and a number of your executive committee. I argued with you that to violate that pledge, after you had asked and received repeated political favors at the hands of the governor, would be gross bad faith."

"When I found that this consideration affected you not at all, I called and which you, to my utter surprise, seem to approve.

"These views, so far as they affect the question of whether he is, as you say, 'a religious man, without narrowness and prejudice,' are to be judged by the adjectives and substantives which he applies to men of opposite faith to his own, in reciting the troubles between English Catholics and English Protestants during the seventeenth century, in his 'History of the American people,' and particularly at pages 130, 131, 209, 220, 329, 331, 337 of the first volume of that work."

"So far as they relate to the views on European immigration and immigrants of Woodrow Wilson, the historian, which Gov. Wilson, the candidate, is now lamely undertaking to explain, they will be found at pages 212, 213, 214 of volume five of that work."

"I do not care to make any comments now upon these utterances. Those who desire to investigate will find this history in any public library and on the shelves of most book stores."

SAILOR BILL DROPS DEAD

Coshocton April 29—"Sailor Bill," alias William Barker, 75, dropped dead at Hilmick Sunday. He was born in England, but ran away from home when but 12 years of age. He sailed around the world eight times. He contended he was heir to an estate worth a million, partly situated at Hull, Eng., and partly in Kansas and western lands. Valid claims would have been proven this summer, it is said.

BANDITS BATTLE TO THE DEATH

AUTO ROBBERS SHOT IN A GARAGE WHERE THEY HAD TAKEN REFUGE

THOUSANDS SEE FIGHT

Police, Gendarmes and Guards Battle Four Hours With Two Desperadoes

Paris, April 29.—Bonnot, the leader of an organized band of automobile bandits who have been terrorizing Paris and surrounding districts for months and Dubois, a notorious anarchist, were shot to death Sunday in the most thrilling encounter in the annals of French crime.

A garage at Choisy Le-Roi, six miles south of Paris in which the bandits had taken refuge, was blown up by dynamite after these two men had kept at bay four hours a large part of the police force of Paris, a contingent of gendarmes, two companies of republican guards and a company of engineers. Ten thousand spectators viewed the battle. Bonnot and Dubois, after wounding two policemen took refuge in the garage. They were trapped in the building which was once surrounded. Reinforcements were dispatched to aid the police, composed of gendarmes, republican guards and engineers. A battery of artillery was on the way from Versailles when a detachment of soldiers succeeded in placing dynamite against the structure and blowing out the front wall. Bonnot was captured alive. He was riddled with bullets and died on the way to a hospital. The great crowd that had gathered, with cries of "Death to Bonnot," almost tore the bandit from the soldiers, several of whom were injured.

Parisians, particularly automobilists, have been in a state of terror because of the reckless crimes of the automobile bandits, which reached a climax in the murder of Assistant Superintendent Jouin of the detective department and the wounding of Chief Inspector Colmar by Bonnot on the morning of April 24. The government then ordered all the available police to hunt the assassins day and night.

At 7 o'clock Sunday morning M. Guichard superintendent of detectives, tracked Bonnot to the isolated garage at Choisy-Le-Roi. As Guichard and his men approached, a bandit who proved to be Dubois, was preparing to mount a motorcycle. He answered the summons to surrender by opening fire, while he retreated to the garage. At the same moment there was a hail of bullets from a window and two detectives fell, one with two bullets in his abdomen. It was Bonnot shooting from the first floor.

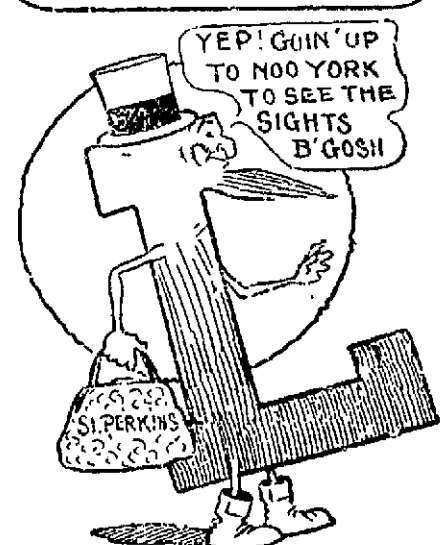

The detectives retired and a general alarm was sent out. Police, gendarmes and all classes of people came quickly. They were armed with muskets and revolvers and directed hundreds of bullets at the garage, from which came a steady rain of lead in reply. M. Lepine, prefect of Paris, was notified and he tele-

Smiling Rube Boehler pitched his team mates to victory again Sunday afternoon, against Mansfield, this time allowing but four hits, two of which were scratchy or lucky, whichever way you look at it. It was another victory where the Richmond county gang got but one run. And the twelve or fifteen hundred fans who saw both the contests in Newark, wonder how Manager McCormick would ever have managed to score 20 runs in two games of nine innings, even on their home lot.

More than that, the Mansfield bunch in the two games here has not indicated by its hitting ability that it is capable of getting thirty hits even in two games, for a total of forty or fifty bases. Yet the box scores tell that very story and it must be taken as a matter of fact.

Sunday's game was not an exciting exhibition. There were several pretty plays and Mister Boehler's pitching was high class but the rain man started in early to spoil the afternoon's sport and until the fifth inning, when the rain checks were made null and void, he threatened to stop the play.

The management couldn't see it that way. The mere thought of sending the crowd of 1200 or more from the park, each with a paste board good for general admission any time this season was howling and the orders were to continue the game if at all possible. These orders were directly responsible for the one run scored by Mansfield.

Otherwise the game would have been stopped before the fourth when it developed into a healthy down-pour. Naturally the ball was hard to control and two passes and a hit batsman filled the sacks. Then Redman dropped a high fly into short center which Pfeiffer momentarily lost sight of, and he got but one finger on the ball and the one was broken by the contact and Dutch retired from the game. On the play Daly trotted home from second and Slagel was thrown out at third.

Incidentally, the game was played under protest as Manager McCormick did not entirely sanction Grim's action in sending Madden to right field dressed in a gray uniform. The matter will be placed before President Reed for a decision.

Mansfield got runners on the path in every frame but the third and fifth. Strange to say, the third inning saw Jimmy Harrison at third base handle the first three men up, throwing them out at first base. In the fifth, Boehler and Shovelin assisted Markey with two and Williams at short retired the third man unassisted.

In the first, Boehler's error gave Lamy a life but Womack and Abbott were not equal to a hit to send him around the horn.

In Newark's half of the first, with two down, Pfeiffer walked and took second and third on Redman's passed balls. Harrison walked but when the double steal was on Pfeiffer was caught at the plate by Daly's splendid throw.

With one man down in the second, Slagel walked and Manager McCormick drove a double to left field, Slagel stopping at third. Boehler took Redman's grounder and Williams fielded Higley's effort and two runners died on the bags.

Markey made a strong bid for a rally in the second when he singled sharply to right and stole second. Redman's third passed ball sent him to third but Irling and Schwab swung twice on Higley's stunts and retired the side.

In Newark's half of the third, Boehler fanned, Nally walked and Shovelin advanced him a peg with a roller to Slagel. Pfeiffer sent a Texas leaguer to center and Nally came romping home with one tally that looked like a whole string.

In Mansfield's half of the fourth the rain had developed into a veritable down-pour. Abbott, first up, proved an easy out but Daly walked. Slagel was hit in the ribs and McCormick walked. This crowded the corners and Redman made a strong bid for a hit when he dropped his high fly back of second. As stated above Pfeiffer lost the ball in the rain and it caromed off his fingers. Pfeiffer however, retrieved it and caught a runner at third, saving himself an error and robbing Redman of a possible hit. Pfeiffer was removed from the game with a fractured finger. Irling was switched to center and Madden took the right garden.

In the fifth, Schwab drew a pass, being the first batter up. Boehler attempted to bunt, caught the infield off its stride and beat the throw to first. Nally bunted again, the ball being a high fly which Slagel couldn't get under in time to catch Schwab or Boehler. When Shovelin drove one past short, Schwab came home with the second run.

Madden, his first time up, with two on hit a high one to Womack and Williams sent Plummer back into center field for his long fly which retired the side.

Mansfield looked dangerous in the ninth when Harrison booted the first ball hit and gave Slagel a life. McCormick flew out to Lamy in right and Redman walked. Palmer, batting for Higley dropped a high one back of third which Williams gobbled after a spectacular run and Fowles batting, for Plummer drove a long one to center field which Irling settled under after a good sprint.

held Marion to 4 hits, while the visitors bunched hits on Perdue in the sixth, clinching the contest. Marion had 24 assists, Perdue making 10 of them. No opening ceremonies were permitted on account of Sunday. Score: R. H. E. Marion... 10 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 4 2 Lima... 10 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 3 0 Batteries—Perdue and Jackley; Munk and Francis. PFEIFFER'S HOMER FEATURED GAME AT MANSFIELD

Mansfield, April 29.—It only took three innings for the Tigers to score enough runs to win from Newark in the second and last game of the series Saturday afternoon at league park by a score of 9 to 6. The game was another free-hitting affair in which the visitors outthrew the Tigers, getting eleven to their ten.

The victory scored by the Tigers was a result of bunched hits in the second, third and fourth innings. It seemed that when they started to hit there was no end to it. Both teams went scoreless in the initial round while in the second each scored one. The visitors came back with another in the third while the Tigers in their half went three better and scored four. Again in the fourth the visitors crossed with another while the Tigers repeated and scored four, sewing up the game. The score stood 9 to 3 up to the seventh inning when Newark with three hits and an error scored three tallies. The visitors never had a chance to win and the only time indications pointed that way was in the second inning when the score stood a tie.

Scott drew the lucky number and was chosen to do mound duty as a starter. He is a big right-hander and in the six innings he worked held the visitors at arm's length. Ten safeties were made off his delivery, but they were scattered and did not result in more than one run a frame with the exception of the seventh when he had perfect control and on several occasions with three balls on the batter, he sent the plate to the bench. Thomas, the lean, lanky lad from Akron, who was with the Tigers about three weeks at the close of last season, but did not pitch in any games, relieved Scott of his troubles in the seventh with a runner on first and third. Nally, Shovelin and Pfeiffer, had each singled and Nally had scored on Shovelin's blow.

Williams, the first man to face Thomas, grounded to Daly, who threw to Womack. Shovelin scored on the out but would have been an easy out at the plate. Markey drew a pass. Irling's grounder to Thomas was juggled, allowing Pfeiffer to score. Deegan fouled to Redman and Schwab went the air route. Thomas' pitching from then on was one of the features of the game. In the eighth he retired the side by fanning three in succession while in the ninth with two on and one gone, he fanned Irling and Deegan with little trouble.

Cooper was easy for the Tigers and he remained throughout the game some batting averages would have been fattened. He worked four innings and lost the game. Johnson relieved him in the fifth and from that time on the Tigers were need under cover. Only one safety was made and not a score. A walk to McCormick in the seventh and Womack's hot one to Williams in the eighth were the only ones to see first base.

The visitors started the scoring in the second Irling walked and Womack's error on Deegan's sacrifice sent Irling to third. Deegan stole second. Redman threw to Daly and he returned the throw to Redman to nab Irling at the plate. Redman had him two feet but lost the ball in the mix-up.

The Tigers returned the trick in the second. Daly's single followed by one off Schlegel's bat, a base on balls and Redman's fly to right, scored Daly.

Pfeiffer's long hit that easily cleared the tracks beyond the left field fence, gave the visitors another in the third. Deegan's single followed by Schwab's triple to right center in the fourth scored Deegan. The last runs came in the seventh as heretofore explained.

The Tigers in the third scored four off four hits. With one gone "Doc" Abbott clouted a three bagger to right that skimmed the line line. Schlegel sent a hot one to Deegan and Abbott scored. Deegan booted McCormick's grounder and Redman singled, scoring Schlegel. Schwab allowed one to go through, advancing McCormick to third and Redman to second. Scott crossed Shovelin and drove one between second and first that Shovelin couldn't quite reach, scoring McCormick and Redman.

In the third the game was won with four runs off three hits and two walks and a balk. Lamy fanned as a scarier and Womack singled. Abbott and Daly walked, choking the bricks. Schlegel singled, Womack scored. McCormick lined one over Nally's head near the score board, scoring Abbott and Daly. McCormick was caught at third in an attempt to stretch the hit to three bases. The score:

Portsmouth 5, Chillicothe 1. Portsmouth, April 29.—Donalds was too much for Chillicothe Saturday, the locals winning easily, 5 to 1. Portsmouth jumped on the offerings of Pitcher Rankin in the early innings and secured a commanding lead. The hitting of E. Cain, Weinberg and Southworth featured the game. West Released: Whalen Coming. Marion, April 29.—Outfielder Billy West was released by Marion Saturday, as Manager Johnston has three gardeners in prime condition. Infielder Whalen will report tomorrow, making three candidates for second base.

Outfielder Nally made a nice running catch at Schlegel's expense in the ninth. It looked as if the play was impossible, but the speedy outfielder turned the trick. His pegging to home in the fourth, catching a bunt could not have been more accurate. Nally looks better this season than he ever did.

S.S.S. NATURE'S TONIC

The very great majority of persons need a tonic in the Spring or early Summer. The system undergoes a change at this season and the entire physical machinery is disturbed. The general bodily weakness, a tired, worn-out feeling, lack of appetite, poor digestion, a half sick feeling and a general run-down condition of the system, show that the blood is weak or anaemic, and a blood purifying tonic is needed to build up the deranged system and enrich the blood. The use of S.S.S. at this time may save you from a long spell of sickness, and it will certainly prepare you for the long, hot Summer. Many people have put off using a tonic until the system became so weakened and depleted it could not successfully throw off disease germs, and have paid for the neglect with a spell of fever, malaria or some other debilitating sickness. S.S.S. is Nature's ideal tonic. It is a composition of the extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks which science and experience have proven are best fitted for restoring to the human system. It contains no minerals of any kind and is therefore perfectly safe for persons of any age. S.S.S. tones up the stomach and digestion, aids the system of that tired, worn-out feeling, and imparts vigor and strength to every part of the body. It purifies and enriches the blood, stimulates the secreting and excreting members to better action, quiets the overstrained nerves, and makes one feel better in every way.

CELEBRATION ODD FELLOWS ANNIVERSARY

Exercises Held in Lodge Room Sunday—Fine Address of Judge Walter Irvine.

Anniversary services of the Odd Fellows lodge were held Sunday afternoon in the lodge rooms, in Second street. Addresses were given by various members of the order and excellent music was rendered. A history of the lodge, prepared by Judge Walter Irvine and read by him, proved an interesting feature of the meeting. The history of the lodge follows:

Under the regulations prescribed by the Sovereign Grand Lodge, we, as members of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, have met this day to celebrate the ninety-fourth anniversary of the institution of our order in the United States.

In the winter of 1818-19, Thomas Wilkey and John Welch, natives of England, resided in Baltimore, Md. Both were Odd Fellows. Wilkey having been initiated in the city of London as early as 1804. He afterwards assisted in founding a new lodge in London, known as Morningstar Lodge No. 38, subordinate to a body called the Grand Lodge of England, but enjoying little authority beyond London. It is well to note here that there were a number of independent jurisdictions and even independent lodges, in England and the same conditions prevail to this day. However then, as now, the work was practically alike in all, and facilities were given to members to pass from one to another by means of withdrawal cards.

Wilkey and his friend Welch, as strangers in a strange land, missed the old ties and friendly meetings, and naturally turned to the establishment of their beloved order in the land of their adoption. The result was the institution of Washington Lodge, No. 1, on Monday, April 26, 1819, by Wilkey, Welch, John Duncan, John Cheatham and Richard Rushworth. All of these, except Duncan, had been initiated in England. Duncan claimed to have been initiated in Baltimore in 1802; and at any rate, he was well versed in the work.

Washington Lodge was self-instituted; that is, the founders had no charter or dispensation from any existing body, but proceeded upon their own authority. Notwithstanding the disjointed state of the order in England, it is probable that this was felt by the organizers to be contrary to custom, and that affiliation with the English Lodges would be a source of strength to them. They made application to the "Duke of York Lodge," of Preston, England, for a charter. They also asked power and authority to extend the benefits of the fraternity throughout the whole land. This provision was the foundation stone in after years of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, and of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the United States and the world. A charter, warrant or dispensation was accordingly granted, under the date of February 1, 1820. The warrant was received in October, 1820, nearly a year after the application had been sent. In those days the English government examined all private mail at discretion, and hence private documents were entrusted only to the secret, if slow, care of private hands.

Now as this application received no reply for so long a time, the lodge applied to the English jurisdiction known as the Manchester Unity. On January 7, 1821, a charter was issued by this body, but it failed to reach the brother who had gone to England with the application and on his return to America he found the new lodge working under the dispensation from the Preston lodge.

Washington Lodge, by virtue of its charter and situation, was at one and the same time, a subordinate and a grand lodge. It was felt necessary that to provide for an increased number of lodges, a grand body should be established, and on February 22, 1821, Washington's Birthday, the Noble Grand of Washington Lodge surrendered by previous vote of the Lodge, into the hands of the "Committee of Past Grand," the dispensation from the Preston lodge; and thereupon the committee organized itself into the Grand Lodge of Maryland and the United States. The officers were Thomas Wilkey, coach spring maker, Grand Master, John P. Entwistle, printer, Deputy G. M.; William S. South, currier, Grand Warden; John Welch, painter, G. C.; John Boyd, mahogany sawyer, G. C.; William Larkam, cabinet maker, G. C.

Such was the beginning of Odd Fellowship in America and thus was laid the corner stone of the mighty fraternal force that exists in the United States today. Masonry is perhaps more ancient, but Odd Fellowship is not a copy of Masonry. It is altogether different in the character of its membership, and in the objects of its association.

All of the modern fraternal beneficial societies have sprung from the seed thus planted by Odd Fellows in the city of Baltimore.

On the 9th day of June, 1823, Grand Master Wilkey instituted the Massachusetts lodge No. 1, of Boston, and on the 11th of that month, he instituted the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts. On the 24th, on his return from Boston, he instituted the Grand Lodge of New York, and on June 27th the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania.

It now became inconvenient that the Grand Lodge of Maryland should be supreme ruler of her own subordinate lodges, and also over the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New York, Maryland surrendered her charter to the Grand Lodge of the United States, which organized January 15, 1825. Thomas Wilkey was the first Grand Sire. At that time there were but nine lodges in the four states.

Now the original "Duke of York Lodge" charter had served as a basis for Washington Lodge by surrender for the Grand Lodge of Maryland; and again by surrender for the Grand Lodge of the United States. It had been granted by a single lodge, and there was perhaps a feeling that too much stretching might in future make its authority a little thin in spots. In 1826 Grand Sire Wilkey visited England and upon his suggestion, on May 15, 1826, there was granted to the Grand Lodge of the United States, by the "Grand Annual Moveable Committee" in Manchester, a free dispensation confirming the Preston charter, and authorizing said Grand Lodge to work without the interference of any other country.

In 1879 at the session held in Baltimore the style of the Grand Lodge of the United States was changed to "The Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows." This was caused by the extension of American Odd Fellowship beyond the borders of the United States and the establishment of foreign Grand Lodges under its jurisdiction. The first session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge outside the United States was held in Toronto, Canada, September 20, 1880.

There are five independent grand lodges which have derived their authority from the United States: The Grand Lodge of the German Empire, The Grand Lodge of Australasia, The Grand Lodge of Sweden, and the Grand Lodge of Switzerland. The Sovereign Grand Lodge retains over these the right to guide and control and to keep all laws, usages, customs and work uniform throughout the globe. These independent grand lodges in some cases have Grand Lodges subordinate to them. In Australasia, and Germany, lodges are permitted to transact business in the initiatory degree.

The Beginning in Ohio.
September 26, 1830, a petition was presented for a lodge at Cincinnati; the petition was granted and on Dec. 23, 1830, the lodge was instituted as Ohio lodge No. 1. In January, 1832, the Grand Lodge of Ohio was instituted at Cincinnati with David Stuart as Grand Master. However, the formal institution of the Grand Lodge by Thomas Wilkey, Grand Sire, on February 7, 1833, with Richard G. Cheavens as G. M., and this is commonly accepted as the proper date of institution.

The first lodge was instituted in Canada August 10, 1843, and the Grand Lodge at Montreal, November 16, 1844.

The Grand Lodge of Australasia covers Victoria, N. S. Wales, South Australia, in Australia, and New Zealand and Tasmania. Victoria was instituted in 1868.

The first lodge in Switzerland came into existence at Zurich in 1871, and the Grand Lodge in 1874. Chile, South America, as a Grand Lodge, dates from 1875, a lodge having been formed the year before. A lodge and a grand lodge. Grand Lodges or Lodges have been instituted in Denmark, Wales, England, Sandwich Islands, Peru, Netherlands, West Indies, Mexico, Cuba, Sweden, France, Japan, Newfoundland, Italy.

Odd Fellowship in England.
The most important branch of the order in England is the Manchester Unity. This body is the parent of American Odd Fellowship. The Duke of York Lodge, which granted our first dispensation, was a subordinate of this jurisdiction. There is no definite information as to the origin of the order, but it was known by that name over two hundred years ago. The cardinal principles were patriotism, assistance in misfortune, social amusement and instruction. The "social feature was of a sort, very largely, that is prohibited now, Times change, and we change with them, but in dispensing with artificial aids to sociability the Odd Fellows were many years in advance of the times. In fact, they were ahead of the travelling evangelist."

The Manchester Unity was established in 1813. Prior to this time there were various unions of lodges, and a number of independent lodges. Subordinate to the Unity are districts, corresponding to our Grand Lodges. The business of the ruling body is transacted mostly by a board of directors meeting quarterly and by the Annual Moveable Committee. It seems that members are admitted at the age of 16, but there are lodges which admit infants of even five years, under sort of combination of industrial and endowment insurance plan. At 16 or 18 these are transferred as adult members of lodges, their endowment being paid to them, or to the lodge receiving them.

Our Numbers.
Every great sect on earth appeals to the arguments of numbers, long continuance and wide dispersion throughout the globe. It may be admitted that the doctrine or a practice is accepted by a great number of intelligent and properly educated people, of various races and in varying climes, through successive generations, there arises a strong presumption that the object of this acceptance contains the germ, at least, of truth. It is even more probable that this belief must be beneficial to all these people.

On Dec. 31, 1910, here in Ohio we had 764 lodges with a total membership of 84,587—the strongest fraternity in Ohio. The receipts for the year were $767,382. Each day of 1910 the order paid out for relief $506,52. The receipts of Rebekah lodges amounted to $48,017. From 1830 to December 31, 1909, there have been initiated into the order 3,590,656, 3,713,812 members, and 310,700 widowed families have been relieved, and $131,000,000 in round numbers expended for relief. There were then 1,952,421 members. For the year ending Dec. 31, 1909, there was an increase in membership of 41,608, not counting sisters, a revenue of $17,000,000, an expenditure for relief of $5,356,925. The lodges had a total investment of $49,511,000.

There are 1,500,000 at least, who recognize and work under the various British bodies. These jurisdictions are perhaps 22 in number, and their membership varies from 1700 in the smallest separately listed up to 900,000 for the Manchester Unity. The Grand United Order have 251,000, the National Independent 47,000, the Nottingham Imperial 44,800, the Ancient Noble 32,000, the British United 15,300, five others 5000 to 8,000, and eleven listed together, 15,000. There is probably a total of 3,500,000 Odd Fellows in the world today.

The Home.
To the home at Springfield there have been admitted since organization, brothers 151, sisters, 72, boys 284, girls 20, a total of 707. In the home March 1, 1911, brothers 52, sisters 38, boys 90, girls 67, a total of 247.

Licking County, 14 lodges, 1,561 members, Grand Lodge met in Newark in 1885.

SCHOOLS OF TOWN PLANNING

Man Who Adds to Beauty of City is Given Encouragement in Europe.

Ancient Athens and Rome set us an example of civic centers in the Acropolis and the Forum.

Frankfort, says the New York World, purchased a number of medieval buildings near the city hall and restored them to the original style that they should be in harmony with it.

Berlin has a school of town planning.

Germany has experts like Stueben, Fischer, Gurleit, Henrici and Baumeister, who give advice on town planning and travel from city to city. It is a new profession—"staedtebau."

Frankfort has built an exposition hall about the size of Madison Square garden.

Munich has a group of exposition buildings comprising an auditorium, a theater, a hall for exhibits and a summer concert garden.

When a new street is opened in Brussels or Paris, prizes running as high as $4,000 in Brussels and equal to one-half the street tax in Paris are offered by the authorities for the most artistic facades.

Vienna remits a percentage of taxes to landlords who will tear down an old building and put up a bigger and better one.

Copenhagen gives a prize every year to the architect who designs the most slightly building and best harmonizes with the older buildings about it.

Paris requires that all office and house fronts shall be periodically repaired or repainted, so that the street shall appear neat and fresh.

All wide Paris streets are in effect parks. They have rows of shade trees. Many of them have a central park strip planted with trees, grass and flowers, and benches are placed there. Along the chief streets are perhaps 100,000 trees, a large number for a city so compactly built.

In practically all European cities pavements are kept constantly in good repair.

All those European cities whose good government has something to teach America are managed not by politicians but by experts.

How can it be expected that next Fourth of July will be safe and sane when two big political conventions just before are taken into consideration?

A Trenton, N. J., man complains that he hasn't been able to sleep in thirty years. Why doesn't he complain to the janitor about it?

NERVOUS, DEBILITATED AND RUN-DOWN

Either the Rest Cure or Tona Vita Will Build
You Up Again.

If you are nervous, debilitated, and run-down in health, there are two things you can do to bring back your strength and vitality. You can go to a sanitarium and take the rest cure or you can secure the great modern tonic "Tona Vita" and let it build you up and furnish new nourishment for your shattered nerves.

You know what wonderful results have been accomplished by "Tona Vita" since physicians first introduced it in this country you would much rather take this tonic than to go to any sanitarium on earth. Here is a statement from Mr. J. B. House, of 281 "Twentyfourth Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., who has tried "Tona Vita." "I was all run down, intensely nervous and suffered with the most violent headaches. I felt tired and dull all day, my body seemed benumbed at times, and I did not sleep well. My digestion was imperfect and I was continually constipated. As soon as I ate anything my stomach filled with gas and I was distressed for a half hour or more. My mind was dull and my memory very poor. I contracted a cold easily and suffered with severe coughs. Sometime ago I talked with a physician who advised me to take "Tona Vita." I did it and am glad I did for the medicine was wonderful in my case. I feel as though I had a new lease on life. My ambition has returned as well as my strength and energy.

"I now sleep well and get up in the morning feeling cheerful and ready for work."

"My wife was also run down and nervous. She started taking the medicine when it began to help me. Her improvement has been fine and she is now in good health."

If you are run down and haven't enough strength to do your own fault, if you feel miserable a day longer, when you can get such a preparation as "Tona Vita."

R. F. Collins, 27 North Third Street, is agent for Tona Vita in Newark, O., and will refund the purchase price if it is not entirely satisfactory. The Approved Formula Co., Dayton, O.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

AN INFLUENTIAL OLD DOCTOR.

By A. W. MACY.

Galen was the most illustrious physician of antiquity. He was born 131 A. D., in Pergamum, Asia Minor, but spent a large portion of his life at Rome, where he had many great people for patients. He was very learned, and exceedingly proud of it. He wrote many treatises, and was a great investigator; in fact, he complacently believed that he had exhausted the possibilities of investigation. He found the medical profession divided into many sects or schools. After his time there was but one, the Galenic. He was very successful in his practice, yet when tried by the standards of modern science many of his theories and methods seem crude and even childish.

BANDITS

phoned instructions to the police to do nothing until he arrived. "We will blow them up with dynamite," he said.

Meanwhile the republican guard and engineer corps arrived, while thousands of persons flocked to the scene from all directions and occupied positions at a safe distance. They became so numerous that the soldiers were forced to drive them back as they were interfering with the progress of the siege, which was conducted aggressively.

M. Lepine, M. Guichard and the commander of the republican guard held a council of war and decided to use dynamite. Hundreds of general dummies armed with carbines, then began to encircle the building to prevent the escape of the bandits.

A cart was rigged up with thick mattresses as a barricade and the attacking party backed slowly toward the garage.

Prior to this excitement had been at fever heat. Officers galloped back and forth giving orders to restrain the crowds which were now surging in the streets. But as the cart approached the building a great stillness which was so marked that one could even hear the click of the cinematograph machines, which the operators turned calmly, so as not to lose a single picture of the drama. When the cart reached the wall, Lieut. Perreau emerged and coolly placed two huge sticks of dynamite against the building and ignited the fuse. The horse galloped out of range and the spectators waited. But no explosion followed. This operation was repeated twice. Then came a terrific report and a column of smoke and debris shot upward.

All the while the bandits were volleying steadily, but no one was hit. As the front wall collapsed with a crash the

DISCUSSED PLANS FOR A GARBAGE DISPOSAL PLANT

The entire membership of the city council and several of the city officials held a conference Sunday afternoon when the problem of disposing of the city's garbage was discussed. Communications from other cities telling how the problem was solved, were read and a plan was decided upon which will be presented formally to the council at its next regular meeting. It was decided to abandon the dumping ground as a place for the disposal of garbage and dead animals, and in all probability all refuse matter which will endanger the health of the community through decomposition, will be sent to a disposal plant outside of the city limits. It is understood that a firm will gladly receive the garbage, etc., and care for it properly, besides hauling it from the city without cost. The refuse will be used for the manufacture of fertilizer. The present dumping ground will be continued for the dumping of rubbish not containing garbage or other refuse which is subject to decomposition.

The car is for the private use of the Vogelmeier Bros. and will not be used as a public conveyance.

FORMER AMERICAN BEAUTY IS WIFE OF WHITE STAR LINE'S UNPOPULAR DIRECTOR

Mrs. J. Bruce Ismay.

The wife of J. Bruce Ismay, the unpopular head of the White Star line, is a beautiful and accomplished American woman. In 1884, Mr. Ismay, at that time the American representative of the White Star line and a resident of New York city, married Julia Florence Schellin, daughter of George H. Schellin, and one of the most popular girls in New York's exclusive society set. Mrs. Ismay, although for many years a resident of London, has been a frequent visitor to the United States and is almost as well known in America as in England.

MONEY TRUST TO BE PROBED BY CONGRESS

Drag Net After Certain Alleged Progressive Leaguers, Including Harvey Garber of Ohio.

Washington, D. C., April 29.—Now that the opposition to the proposed Money Trust investigation has been swept aside, with the adoption of the Phipps resolution calling for a sweeping inquiry, the country is likely to see the limelight penetrate the secret recesses of Wall street's financial doings. Indications are that the Banking and Currency committee will make the probe thorough. Opportunity presents itself in this quiz to make some excellent Democratic campaign material, and on this point Democrats are in accord. Waving aside Minority Leader Mann's charge that the whole thing is a scheme to "milk the corporations," they call loudly to have the investigation go on, no matter what exalted heads it may hit.

Connections between Wall street and campaign funds, past and present, are to be laid bare. In this way the names of Theodore Roosevelt, William J. Bryan, George W. Perkins, Thomas F. Ryan, the late Mr. Harriman, and possibly Charles P. Taft are likely to be dragged in Samuel Untermyer, the investigating committee's counsel is said to have in hand a list of notable names that suggests the cream of the country's political and money power. Subpoenas await gentlemen reluctant to tell what they know about the power of money, particularly Wall street money, to influence men and measures.

Incidentally, some of the smaller fry will, it is said, be haled before the committee by way of subpoena. One of these, so report says, is Harvey C. Garber, Democratic national committeeman from Ohio, who after quitting congress entered the more lucrative employ of the Bell Telephone Company as lobbyist in the Buckeye State. Garber is identified with the so-called Progressive League of Ohio and in this capacity is chief lieutenant and mouthpiece of William J. Bryan in that state. Also he is a bitter opponent of Gov. Harmon. Two argue-eyed and energetic Ohio congressmen, one of them H. J. Goetze, are camping on Mr. Garber's trail, which, they say, reveals a story of manipulation between Wall street, Columbus and Washington that will highly illuminate the records of the Money Trust investigation. One of Mr. Goetze's charges is that Garber, being one of the Progressive League crowd of Ohio that are howling so loudly about Aylar street in their campaign against Governor Harmon is a good subject for the drag net at this time. Garber, while a member of congress, accepted an annual retainer of $20,000 from the Bell Telephone Company. This may or may not be true. But whether true or false, it is illustrative of the "opportunities" that sometimes come to our wide-awake congressmen. Others have been known to augment their government pay by serving corporations in need of legislative information in Washington, and it is not unlikely that other lawmakers will be called upon to explain corporation relations.

FASHION IN MODERN MEDICINE.

The English "Nation" says: "There are as many fashions in its experimental surgery, its inoculations, its serums, and even its hygienic rules, as there are in ladies' hats. . . . A serum rages in favor like a hobble skirt, only to give way in a year or two to some more novel and possibly more rational form of treatment. Professional discipline serves meanwhile to repress the critics and the sceptics. The assumption that all this clever guesswork rests on a sure scientific method must be maintained, and it reigns as sacred as the other assumption that any medical graduate whose conduct is formally correct is fit (and he alone is fit) for the tremendous responsibilities which he assumes. The mysteries and the dignity of the craft are upheld with all the jealousy of a mediaeval Guild."

CN A Better Cleanser than Soap and Water

Of course you are going to clean your house this month.

Then why not do the work right? You can make everything look clean just with soap-suds.

But soap never will make the place actually free from grease and grime. It leaves deposits in cracks and crevices and often forms a scum that attracts more dirt. So don't use soap.

Use CN. It's the greatest dirt chaser you can find. Put only of yourself and family depend so two tablespoonfuls of it into a pail of water and "get busy." It reaches everywhere, clears away the dirt, kills the germs, drives out odors and makes the house sweet and clean.

L. J. Burton of 43 Dewey avenue, was happily surprised Sunday afternoon by a number of his comrades of the Union Veteran Legion, the occasion being Mr. Burton's 77th natal anniversary.

After a social hour the guests were invited to sit down to an elegant supper which had been prepared by the host's daughter, Mrs. Anna Hickey, assisted by the Misses Florence and Hanna Hickey and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. E. Burton.

Several more social hours were enjoyed by the veterans in relating their army experiences. Excellent music was furnished and Colonel J. L. Wylie in a fine speech on behalf of the Legion presented Comrade Burton with a fine watch fob and charm, emblematic of the order, which was responded to by Mr. Burton in a neat speech of thanks.

Colonel C. H. Kibler and Chaplain B. D. Barr added much pleasure to the occasion by their wit and humor.

Those present were: Comrades Geo. W. Darlington, oldest comrade, 87 years old, wounded and prisoner; George Ball, Col. C. N. Wylie, Col. J. L. Wylie, Col. C. H. Kibler, Moses Goodrich, George W. Rugg, John A. Ryan, Peter M. Geo. W. Wells, Wm. Hill, David Lowe, L. J. Burton, J. L. Harris, Ruben Bruner, John Hiser, M. O. Nash, T. A. Jones, F. C. King, B. D. Barr, J. H. Avery, S. S. Wagoner.

NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY

Incident of the First Investigation of Standard Oil.

New York Sun's Inquiries in 1878 Were Met With Courtesy but Silence, but the Information Was Obtained Elsewhere.

By E. J. EDWARDS.

In the early fall of 1878 I was sent for by the late Charles A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun, and when I answered the summons I found him reading a communication from a correspondent in Pennsylvania. The letter was very brief; it suggested to Mr. Dana that he cause an investigation to be made into the history and methods of the Standard Oil company of Cleveland, O., which about that time had come to be looked upon as a trust, by the oil world especially. As he handed me this letter Mr. Dana said: "You go out there and make an investigation; make it thorough no matter how long it takes."

I first went to the oil regions of western Pennsylvania and was there about three weeks. The oil producers gave me every facility for getting such information as was to be had in the oil regions. They also called my attention to certain litigation which had then been begun in Pennsylvania with intent to break up the Standard Oil company in so far as it operated in that state. Having completed the investigation at Titusville and Oil City, I went to Cleveland, presuming that the officers of the Standard Oil company would be willing, if not anxious, to furnish me with information which would serve to explain some of the more grievous charges made against it and its methods by the oil producers. Furthermore, I had no doubt the Standard Oil company would be glad of an opportunity to gain the public ear and to explain the economic principles which had led to the organization of the so-called trust.

When I called at the main offices of the Standard Oil company, after an annoying amount of red tape had been unraveled I was received by a very pleasant-faced and gracious-mannered young man. He listened with apparent earnestness and sincerity as I stated that it was Mr. Dana's desire that an absolutely impartial and perfectly fair report, based upon investigations into the rise and growth of the Standard Oil company, be printed in the New York Sun.

"Have you ever been to Cleveland before?" he asked with utmost politeness, as I finished.

"Only to pass through by train," I replied.

"It is a beautiful city," he said; "you should not return to New York without seeing it."

"I cannot return to New York," I replied, "until I have learned, from the point of view of your organization, something of its history and growth, and have obtained from you, if possible, some answer to the serious accusations that are made against your company by the oil producers of Pennsylvania."

The young man continued to smile blandly. But not the slightest indication did he show of a desire in any way to serve me.

"Can I see Mr. John D. Rockefeller?" I asked.

A fitting but intense expression of surprise and reproach passed over the young man's countenance. Then he resumed his bland smile, simply saying: "Nobody sees Mr. Rockefeller these days."

"Could I see Col. Oliver Payne?" I asked.

"Colonel Payne is a very busy man; I would not care to ask him to make an appointment with you."

"Who, then, is there, with whom I may talk and who can furnish me with the information I require?"

"I don't think there is any information there is nothing to say."

"Have you been instructed to tell me this?" I asked.

With the most affable smile imaginable and the utmost courtesy and deference of manner the young man replied:

"It was not necessary to instruct me. Have you been to the theater?" I understood that Robson and Crane are playing in a very funny farce called "Our Boarding House" at a local theater. I should be glad to send you a ticket."

"Then this is the answer that I am to make to Mr. Dana?" I replied—"that the Standard Oil company has no information to give?"

"As you please," he said.

"Well," I replied, "you may say to your superior officers that if I can't get the information at first hand I will get it at second hand."

"That, also, is as you please," he said, politely.

If the smiling young man read the Sun he must have discovered about two weeks later, in an article covering a page and a half, that much of the information I had sought from him I had obtained elsewhere. That was, I believe, the first investigation into the history and growth of the Standard Oil company which was ever made. In later years some of the officers of that company confessed that it might have been the better part had they taken the public into their confidence in the beginning of the trust's career.

Some of the every-day beverages are harmful to heart, nerves and digestion. Mothers refuse coffee and tea to their children yet, by strange inconsistency, use these beverages themselves.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How a Spoiled Pussy Learned to Behave Himself

Tom Ate the Ham Sandwich.

TABBY was no doubt a spoiled cat, and if Dinah, the cook, could have had her way Tabby would have been still more spoiled. But when she learned that the cream was being skimmed from the milk every morning and the choicest bits of cold chicken were being fed to Mistress Tabby, Jack and Evelyn's mother had told Dinah that she thought a cat who had these good meals of milk and meat every day was well enough fed.

"It's just as well Tabby shouldn't learn to be so particular about her food. You never can tell what is going to happen in this world, and if Tabby ever has to find a home with some one else she may not be able to get so much cream and chicken," said daddy.

"That was what happened to Tom, the pet of an old lady who lived alone with her unmarried daughter.

"Tom got chopped beef for his breakfast and chicken for his dinner, with plenty of milk and tidbits in between.

"Tom had the best chair and the most comfortable sofa in the house when he wanted it, and he never would put a paw outside when it was raining or snowing.

"One day, however, the old lady died, and her daughter wished to close the house for the summer. She hardly knew what to do with Tom, but a cat lover in another part of the town offered to care for him, and so the daughter went off to stay with her sister, believing that her mother's pet would be comfortable.

"At the end of the summer, when she came home, her sister and her sister's children came with her.

"As she unlocked the front door a thin black cat leaped up on the porch and made the greatest fuss over her. He mewed and purred and rubbed against first one and then another of the party with the greatest joy.

"Why, it's our Tom!" she exclaimed.

"It's pretty thin for Tom. He must be hungry! And one of the children opened the lunch basket which they had needed on the train and offered the cat a ham sandwich.

"Oh, Tom won't eat that! He never touches anything but raw chopped beef and chicken," said the boy's mother.

"But Tom gobbled down the bread and ham. Since then he has been a model cat. He eats any food that is given him, and he is gentleness itself with the children.

"It was learned that faithful Tom had run away from his new home and, coming back to the old house and finding no one to let him in, had hung around, feeding off garbage cans until his own folks came home."

INDIGESTION

Causes Dizziness, Nervousness, and Sleeplessness.

You know that most of the ail-

When your food reaches the stom-

If it doesn't digest, but lays heav-

When it ferments it sets loose in stomach poisonous gases which irri-

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

FOOD VALUE OF EGGS.

Eggs contain about 29 per cent of protein, about the same as in cheese, average meat and fish and a little more than in peas and beans and nuts. For a man doing hard labor beans or chick steak would be preferable to eggs as a source of protein from the point of both physiological and household economy, although none of these is necessary, since corn or whole wheat bread contains sufficient protein. The egg is easily digested and combines fairly well with toast, which supplies the carbohydrate and bulk, but with meat, beans and most other foods the egg is incompatible and its retention in the stomach long beyond the period of its digestion often leads to serious results. The yolk contains a large percentage of fat, easily assimilated, with all the mineral elements.
The diet of Cornaro, whose life was prolonged from 45, when physicians said he must die, to 102, was almost exclusively grape juice and uncooked eggs, compatible and easily digested.
The popular notion about eggs is that they are good because they are nutritious, but whether they are good or bad depends largely on what other foods are taken with them.

It is practically wind and rain proof and will aid him materially in enduring the strain of a long race such as this speedway classic.

MISSED MARK
AND SMASHED
THE WINDOW

In a scrap which started Sunday night about 8:30 o'clock by three men in front of Murphy's grocery in West Main street near Fourth, the men escaped injury, but a large plate glass window was destroyed when one of the men swung at another with his umbrella, hitting the glass. Two of the men who gave their names as Watts and Walton were arrested and the third, said to be a man named Sanderson has evaded arrest. The men will be given a hearing later on the charge of destroying property.

QUIT CALOMEL!

THOUSANDS ARE TURNING FROM THIS DANGEROUS DRUG.A Safe Vegetable Substitute Is Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Portsmouth, Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver toner in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like the old and untrustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel though he recognized its value along with its dangers. His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago towards experimenting with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of a long sought for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive oil colored tablet. The results of fifteen years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

HIT BY FAST
PENNSY FLYER
AT PATASKALA

O. V. Harris, colored, of This City, Instantly Killed Saturday night While Walking on Track.

O. V. Harris, a colored man about 32 years of age, who lived in the rear of 71 Union street in this city, was instantly killed in Pataskala Saturday night at about 8:30 when he was struck by a fast east bound Pennsylvania train. Harris, accompanied by his wife and two friends went to Pataskala on Saturday evening and after alighting from the train at that station started to walk to Columbia Center. They were walking along the tracks when the train on which they had come passed them. In leaving the track the couples separated, the women standing on one side of the track and the men on the other. Just as the train had passed Harris crossed behind the last car not realizing that the speeding east bound Pennsylvania train was bearing down upon him. The unfortunate man stepped directly in front of this train which struck him and hurled him high in the air. Death was instantaneous and when the body was picked up it was found to be terribly mangled, the head being crushed, and one leg broken.

The crew of the train was not aware that the man had been struck, and it was not until the stop was made in Newark that it was discovered. When the train drew into the Newark station, a basket of groceries which Harris had been carrying and a portion of the dead man's scalp were found on the pilot of the engine.

After the body had been picked up, Coroner Wiyiarch was notified and the friends of the man made arrangements for the care of the body, which will be shipped to Zanesville for burial.

Harris is survived by a wife and one child, and by Connie McCraddel, a half brother, and Samuel McCraddel, an uncle, all of this city.

RESTORE GRAY HAIR TO NATURAL COLOR

By Common Garden Sage, a Simple Remedy for Dandruff, Falling, Faded, Gray Hair.

The old idea of using Sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers had dark glossy hair at seventy-five, while our mothers are gray before they are fifty. Our grandmothers kept their hair soft and glossy with a "Sage Tea," which also restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it. This objection has been overcome by the Wyeth Chemical Company of New York, who has placed on the market a superior preparation of Sage, combined with Sulphur and other valuable remedies for dandruff, itching scalp and thin, weak, falling hair.

The beauty of the hair depends more on its rich, even shading than anything else. Don't have dry, harsh faded hair when a simple, harmless remedy will bring back the color in a few days; and don't be tormented with dandruff, itching scalp and loose falling hairs. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will quickly correct these troubles, and give color strength, and beauty to your hair.

Get a fifty cent bottle from your druggist today, and prove this to your own satisfaction. All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Frank D. Hall, agent.

LETTER FROM MISS SIMONS;
TOURING WORLD

Visits China—Takes in Chinese Theatre—Steamer Passengers To Be Vaccinated.

After rough riding on the China Sea, we sailed majestically into the harbor of Hong Kong, and it is the most perfect natural harbor to be found, surrounded by mountains and filled with magnificent craft. Besides men-of-war, cruisers and regular passenger boats, the waters are alive with Chinese junks, whose queer sails and color add zest to the scene, to say not a word of the activity of the sampans. They, as you know, are the small, partly covered boats that are the homes of thousands of souls, and they are huddled together in such a way as to remind you of the Ghetto at home.

We were all set agog upon our arrival by the news that there had been a light at Canton and we could not go there, except at our own risk. This upon advice of the U. S. consul. Some of our party, about six men, did go up, however, to see the ancient walled city, but it was rather a risk, for the two forts on the way up are held by the pirates, and it was given out that if our passengers tried to pass they would fire, if only to make international complications. It would seem, however, as if the fighting was at an end, for the ammunition has given out, and little chance to replenish. We took a sail to the island of Macao. It is a Portuguese settlement, first settled in 1577. Its only values, aside from it being a delightful river trip from Hong Kong, are its gambling houses and being the scene of part of the action of the most famous Portuguese poem, Lusiadas, written by Camoes while he was in exile there.

On Friday, his excellency, Sir Frederick Lugard, who has served as governor here for five years, and

GREAT WANT PREVAILS AMONG VICTIMS OF MISSISSIPPI FLOODS; GOVERNMENT FEEDS DAILY THOUSANDS OF PENNILESS REFUGEES

At the top, barge piled with sacks of corn meal; at the bottom, U. S. army officers superintending the landing of supplies.

The Mississippi floods have subsided, but they have left in their wake thousands of homeless, penniless men, women and children. Congress has appropriated several hundreds of thousands of dollars and will probably be asked to appropriate more. Uncle Sam has been feeding daily in the flood districts rations to about seventy thousand flood victims. In addition to taking care of the refugees the government is furnishing 7,200 head of stock with forage. Memphis is the place at which a large share of the supplies are landed.

A ride over the city in ricksha train and sedan chair shows the city to be thoroughly "alive" and purely commercial. There is great display of unsanitary conditions. I believe smallpox is raging now, and as a consequence all passengers must assemble before leaving port for medical examination; there is some talk that each and every one will have to be vaccinated, as we are sailing for Manila. Can you imagine the consternation—500 passengers with the thought of limping or arm in sling as the case may be? I for one trust it is only a scare.

There is, however, one trip that takes you up and away from the reeking humanity. It's to the Peak. You ascend by incline railway about 2000 feet and have a most beautiful panorama all the way, overlooking this wonderful harbor which from the heights takes unto itself new charms, and you stand on the peak spellbound at the grandeur of the handiwork of nature.

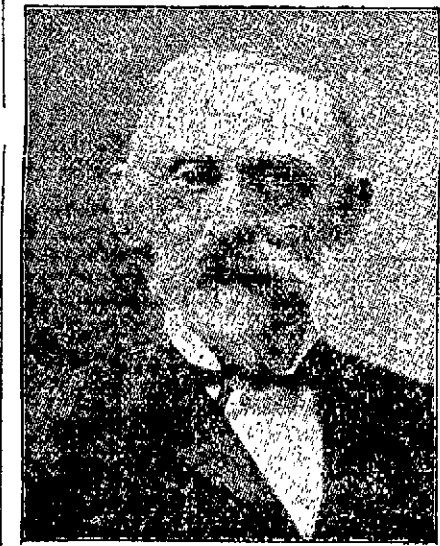

Last night we visited a Chinese theatre and it is difficult to think of a more noisy entertainment. Their theatre has two balconies, and the place was packed to overflowing. We Americans sat on the stage. This does not please the actors. (There are no women in the Chinese theatres.) The orchestra of odds and ends, in all sorts of street clothes, sit on the rear of platform and swing on cords and bang on cymbals all the while the lines are being recited. This, I presume to impress. The actors dress beautifully as fits the part, and assistants stand and change the chairs, tables, etc., as the scene requires, so you see the scenes change under deft fingers of one property man, and no one objects to it. Such a hold has the actor upon his audience that nothing distracts, not even boys calling and selling small things to eat and drink. We stood the play for about an hour and a half, then a ricksha ride through wild and dark Chinese streets to our pier, where the tender was waiting to bring us back to shipboard, which is our home on this round the world trip.

I must tell of the pretty sight we got from the ship after dark, as the city is built on a hill and the houses are quite high, it is most beautiful and fairly like to see the lights as they twinkle on the shore. It always make me feel like singing "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes." But—and here is the saving point— I do not and so the beautiful impression remains.

I go ashore this morning to do a last bit of shopping for every one is investing in helmets, etc., for tropical weather, but I have my doubts about there being any tropics; up to date, with the exception of Honolulu (4 days), warmest winter clothing has been needed, so don't you believe it, that the Pacific is smooth or warm, or that Japan is all flowers and sunshine. Rubbers and umbrellas, together with warm wraps, alone, have made it possible to keep sunshine within.

LARGE CROP OF JOB SEEKERS

Fifteen or Twenty Are After Every Place in Sight.

OFFICE NO LONGER SEEKS MAN

Political Leaders in All Parts of the Country Have Much to Contend With. Representative Lewis of Maryland Worked His Way From Railroad Fireman to Lawyer.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, April 20.—[Special.]—A large and extensive crop of candidates for almost every job in sight is the report that comes to Washington from different parts of the country. The fight for office seems to have permeated the blood of men in every section. "In West Virginia," remarked Senator Watson, "there are fifteen or twenty candidates for every office in every county. They all want places and seem to think this is the year to get them." Other men report a similar condition of affairs and say that it makes political conditions chaotic, for no one can tell what disappointed men and their friends will do in the election which follows their defeat for nominations. The old idea of the office seeking the man has gone glimmering. The office from president down to constable is being chased vigorously by many candidates.

Morbid Curiosity.

Hundreds of people packed the room where the Titanic inquiry was in progress in Washington. Few of them only could see and hear. The others walked about, crowded, pushed, shoved chairs, shuffled their feet and otherwise created disorder. All this time the photographers were barred from the building—were not even allowed on the steps. And yet those photographers, if allowed access to the room, could have given to millions of people a better idea of what was taking place than hundreds were getting who created the disorder.

No doubt it would be considered undignified for senators to permit pictures to be taken of the inquiry and the witnesses, and yet that was what people all over the world are craving. Pictures are as much a part of the news as the written reports.

A Man From Maryland.

When David J. Lewis was unexpectedly elected a member of the house from Maryland the story was told that he had worked his way from a railroad fireman to a lawyer of some prominence in the western part of his state. It was not until he made a speech on the parcels post question that the house of representatives took his measure. Then it was that the best men in the house gave him a place of distinction. He is a man with information, with facts, with ideas, concrete and valuable. When his time expired he was given additional time by both sides because he was contributing information on a subject not very well understood by the members. Lewis made his place secure in his first session of congress.

House Reports.

Congressman Burleson of Texas asked unanimous consent to have printed in the Congressional Record the speech of Congressman Fitzgerald at the New York Democratic convention. "It deals at length," said Burleson, "with the achievements of the Democratic party since it has been in control of the house."

"The speech cannot be very long then," remarked Jim Mann. "It also deals with the delinquencies of the Republican party during the recent past, which makes it quite lengthy," retorted Burleson.

Size of Territories.

Discussion of the Alaska bill brought out the fact that this big district, which is trying to become a territory, has an area of 590,000 square miles. "The question was raised as to the size of other territories when they were created, and some congressmen stated that the territory of Missouri comprised 861,000 square miles when it was created, practically all the northwestern part of the Louisiana purchase."

Jones Interrogates Owen.

The fact that Senator Owen's department of health bill was reported aroused fierce opposition throughout the country, which manifested itself in telegrams and letters. The dispatches to Senator Jones of Washington led him to address several rather sarcastic inquiries to Owen.

"I want to ask the senator," said Jones, "whether it is his intention to seriously press this trust breeding, monopolistic, liberty destroying, tyrannical, reactionary measure against the wishes of the people of my state?" Owen denied that the bill was fraught with as much danger as the telegrams of the opposition indicated.

Hitchcock Stays.

Postmaster General Hitchcock will not retire from the cabinet, at least not until after the national convention and probably not until the 4th of March. His retirement would emphasize differences in the Taft administration which would not be best to make prominent just now. "Hitchcock and Secretary Hilles have been unable to hit things off well, and Hitchcock and other cabinet officers are not in accord. But it is good politics not to have any official sanction of these differences during the campaign now in progress."

The Spangled Tunic

Mrs. Winslow and Lily Belle were just stepping into the automobile when the postman came along.

"That's from Maude!" cried Lily Belle, pouncing upon a blue envelope postmarked "Springview," and running a stickpin under the flap. "Now I'll know what we are all going to wear at the wedding."

She read in silence for a moment. Then she sat up suddenly and fixed her companion with two glittering eyes.

"Cousin Mattie Winslow," she gasped, "will you listen to what Maude Washburne has the assurance to write me? Of course she begins with a lot of truck about her own dress, and then—listen! The attendants are to wear pink marquisette over pink satin. All the other girls, being married, will wear trains, but you, being the only unmarried girl, of course will wear a short dress—ankle length. And so on, and so on. Now, what do you think of that?"

She paused to let the horror of the situation sink into the mind of her companion.

"Well, if they think for a single second that I'm going to do anything of the kind they are much mistaken," went on Lily Belle. "I won't go home for the old wedding, that's all. I'll write to mamma this very day not to let them order the stuff for my dress. Ankle length! Everybody else with a train and little Lily Belle trotting up the aisle in a short dress—bump!"

"Never mind; you just stay here with me until the wedding's over," said Cousin Mattie, soothingly. "How does it happen that they're all married but you?"

"Oh, it's a club we have. There are just seven of us and each one that has married has had the rest for attendants. The man I was going to walk up the aisle with is simply delightful—from Denver. It just makes me perfectly furious, Cousin Mattie."

"Well," purred Cousin Mattie, equally, "just trot around in the stores today and look at the pretty things and forget all about it for a while."

They had their luncheon and were making a tour of the shops when they saw the spangled tunic. Before a critical customer the saleswoman held it up—a lovely, shimmering thing, like a robe of cobwebs spangled with dew-drops.

"Only thirty-two fifty, marked down from forty," said the saleswoman.

The customer turned away indifferently. "It isn't just what I wanted," she drawled. "I think I'll look somewhere else."

Lily Belle darted at the clerk as the other woman turned away. "Let me look at that, please," she cried, dragging Cousin Mattie toward the tunic. "Isn't that the sweetest thing you ever laid your eyes on?"

"Very pretty," agreed Cousin Mattie, surveying the tunic placidly.

As Lily Belle gazed a half-formed thought in her brain crystallized into a sudden resolution.

"Cousin Mattie Winslow," she announced, impressively, "I'm going to buy that tunic if it takes the last cent I have, and I'm going to wear it at the wedding. They'll all be angry, but it serves them right. If I can't have a train at the bottom of my dress I'll have a tunic over the top, to make up."

If Cousin Mattie had any misgivings about the propriety of the arrangement, she was too well acquainted with her young relative's voice to voice them, so the tunic was ordered and paid for.

Mrs. Winslow settled herself comfortably in an easy chair to read a letter. It was two days after the wedding, and the letter was postmarked "Springview" and addressed in Lily Belle's upright handwriting.

"Dear Cousin Mattie," she read, "I have only time to write you a line about the wedding because I'm going out in the car with Mr. Swift—the Denver man I told you about—but I want to thank you for helping me choose that tunic. It just made my dress and everybody said it was the prettiest gown that was ever seen in Springview. Nobody looked at Maude's dress to speak of, or any of the others. The girls were perfectly furious, but it served them right, for they never would have dared to decide the way they did about the trains if I had been here."

"Mamma began to make a little fuss about my wearing the tunic—thought it might not be in good taste—but when I told her that you thought it was all right she was satisfied. She has so much confidence in your judgment. Thank you again, dear Cousin Mattie, for suggesting it."

Cousin Mattie opened her eyes a little at the last sentence, then she smiled placidly.

"Oh, well, I'm willing to take the responsibility," she thought. "It did serve them right."

Now and Later.

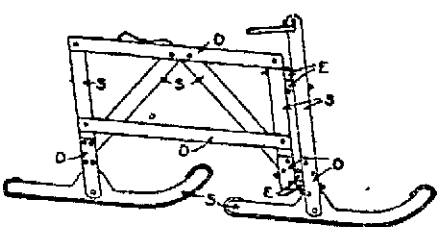

Infant mortality is a heavy drain on the whole race, and especially on the women. In Chicago recently the subject was discussed by experts. The milk supply was one of the most important subjects considered, and one of the easiest to remedy. Housing files and ventilation are also matters in which vast improvement can be made at once by mere energy and intelligence. As an example of improvements that must by their nature be more slow in coming may be mentioned the conquest of the alcohol habit, the diffusion of intelligent ideas regarding sex and the introduction of eugenic standards in marriage. Some of the improvements discussed at Chicago may be rapid, some slow. All must come.—Collier's Weekly.

NEW TYPE OF COASTER SLED

One Built on Bicycle Principle and Is Easy to Make—Constructed of Good Quality of Pine.

The accompanying drawing and sketch illustrate a new type of coasting sled built on the bicycle principle. This coaster is simple and easy to make, says Scientific American. It is constructed of a good quality of pine. The pieces marked S are single, and should be about one by one and one-half inches; the pieces marked D are double or in duplicate, and should be one-half by one and one-half inches. The runners are shod with iron, and are pivoted to the uprights as shown, double pieces being secured to the uprights to make a fork. The seat is a board, to the under side of which is a block, which drops down between the two top slats and is secured with a pin. A foot rest is provided consisting of a short cross-piece secured to

FEAST FOR JAPANESE BOYS

Annual Day Is Made Occasion of Much Merry-making—Kite Flying Is Principal Pastime.

In Japan there is an annual feast-day for boys, when each house that is the proud possessor of male children hangs out strings of paper carp, which, inflated by the breeze, become most life-like monster fish. It was on this feast day that we left Yokohama for Kamakura, once the eastern capital of Japan, now merely a quiet little seaside village. As this was such an important occasion, the whole world made holiday; some families sauntered along the village street in festive attire, "mere man" strutting conceitedly in front, while his dear little womankind shuffled along behind, chattering merrily and half-hidden under immense umbrellas; others, again, hurried to the sea shore to fly their enormous humming kites, from which the parents appeared to derive quite as much enjoyment as the children. The loud hum emitted by the soaring kite is caused by a piece of thin bamboo, which is stretched lightly across from shoulder to shoulder. This taut bamboo filament, not only acts as a Aeolian harp, but binds the whole kite so that its surface is concave instead of being, as in our kites, a plane. The noise, when some three-score or so of these monsters are in the air at the same time, is deafening. The Japanese kite has no tail, but is furnished with numerous long streamers. Great competitions are held by the owners of the kites, and occasionally a mimic battle will be fought in the air, the rival factions endeavoring, by means of powdered glass which has been previously worked into a definite length of the kite strings, to saw through a rival's string, and so bring the vanquished kite tumbling ignominiously to the ground.—Mrs. Ellen Beadnell in Wide World.

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

HOW I COOKED A COMPANY DINNER.

By Martha McCulloch Williams.

Being reasonably vain of my cooking when I go and learn new ways, the next thing is to show them off. Hence, my course-dinner—paper bagged of course. Likewise, a company dinner. It would be a deadly insult to good food even to think of serving it in courses to one lone feeder.

My guests came a trifle late—by the time they had off hats and wraps I was ready to take them in the kitchen. This because of a shrewd suspicion that they thought I had been telling fairy tales—they could not conceive of real food, coming really cooked out of a paper bag.

My people sniffed gratefully as they entered the kitchen. Truly things were not half bad, by the smell. It was very mild—hardly more than an agreeable taint. A hot dish sat ready upon the paper covered table. I lifted out the broiler, set it beside the dish, slipped the edge of the dish well under the bag resting upon the broiler, shoved it well to the middle and opened it. Then came forth in full strength the smell of fish not rankly offensive, but inviting. Inside the bag there was halibut, a la minute—it had been cooking fifteen minutes, was done to a turn, flaky, flavorful, and literally swimming in a sauce of its own juices, mingled with those of the tomatoes covering it, the lemon that had been squeezed on it, and the butter with which it had been liberally dotted.

To go with it there were baked potatoes—baked in a bag, and mealy, without a trace of scorch. The diners vowed they had a new, a singularly fine flavor, somewhat approaching that of a roasted chestnut. They praised the fish—and ate in a way to show it deserved the praise. Still, I think they wondered a bit—was this one bagful all they were to get by way of reward for coming all the way to Harlem? They had not noted that the stove was still in commission—possibly through seeing neither pot nor pan on top of it.

But when they were graciously permitted to help take away the fish course and see the taking up of a steak, also in a bag, they evidently felt better. Especially when the potato bag yielded sweets, which had been cooked along with the white ones, and kept warm underneath, and still another bag furnished tomatoes stuffed with scraped corn. The tomatoes had cooked a little too long, and came out pretty much huddled, but good for all that. They were eaten to the last shred—the steak also looked pretty ghastly at the finish.

Since this was a bag dinner salad was conspicuously absent. Room must be left for the apple dumplings. When they came on, my dinner guests plainly suspected me of the black art. The dumplings, made ready in advance, had been bagged as the bell was ringing, popped in the oven after I had welcomed my company, and had looked there while we ate the other things. The sauce for them, also previously prepared, had kept warm over hot water, in something covered. If anybody ever made better dumplings, it was never my luck to eat thereof.

Black coffee, fruit and cigars for the gentlemen, wound up the performance. In three hours, working single handed, I set my table, cooked my dinner, having all materials in hand, read an evening paper, and even loafed a minute or two now and then.

PAPER BAG LUNCHEON.

By Nicholas Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Grill a la indienne.—Use cold mutton, beef or veal. Slice and cut into rounds or squares. Melt a piece of butter, about the size of a large walnut, on a plate in the oven. Add a teaspoonful of Harvey's sauce, and salt to taste. Mix thoroughly, lay the meat slices in the mixture and let stand an hour. Make ready as many fried croquettes as there are meat slices, place the latter on these, and put them in a well-greased paper bag. Put on broiler, and cook for eight minutes. Serve with mashed potatoes and Portuguese sauce, or with beef, horse radish sauce. To make Portuguese sauce rub a pound of ripe tomatoes through a hair sieve, put the pulp thus obtained in a clean enameled saucepan. Add pepper and salt to taste, a teaspoonful of powdered sugar, a dessert spoonful of vinegar, a teaspoonful of onion juice, or as much chopped garlic as will go on the point of a very small knife. Boil down a little, then use. Half a wineglassful of port is an immense improvement, so, too, is a bit of butter the size of a walnut.

Green Peas.—Put a pint of freshly shelled green peas, a sprig of mint, and half a pint of water into a greased paper bag, seal up, and cook for thirty-five to forty-five minutes.

Baked Bananas.—Use ripe but firm fruit. Peel, dip in melted butter, roll in sugar, put in a greased bag with the juice of a lemon to six bananas. Seal, and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven.

HOW JESUS PREACHED TO SPIRITS IN PRISON

Who They Are and What Was Their Offense.

"CAST DOWN TO TARTARUS."

Pastor Russell, at Georgia's Capital, Tells How Angels Once Materialized and Took to Themselves Wives From Among the Daughters of Men—Fate of Dead of Titanic Disaster Pointed Out From Scripture.

Atlanta, Ga., April 28.—While we weep with the survivors of the "Titanic" disaster, let us thank God that a better understanding of the Bible enables us to sorrow not hopelessly. Not long ago, misguided by our creeds of the Dark Ages, we would have asked, "Were any of the 1500 who perished saints? And assured that very few of them would have been claimed to be saints, we would have concluded that all the remainder plunged down to a Catholic purgatory of terror, or worse, to a Protestant hell of eternal torture.

Even the tales of their great gallantry and heroism would not have altered the decision which would have hung over the question. Did they confess Jesus in word and deed? We would have asked. Were they church members? This is the same argument used respecting the 90,000 heathen who die every day in the year, "going down into Christless graves," the "London Missionary Society" truly says, but means and is understood to mean into Christless eternal torture!

Now, how different! Now we see that a faithful, elect Church is being selected during this Age; that in the next Age they with Jesus may assist, bless, uplift all the non-elect to an earthly salvation to human perfection. In the new Paradise—Earth, which Messiah's Kingdom will usher in. Thus, only the willfully wicked will ever be annihilated.

But our old errors die hard; because we have twisted the Bible to fit them. For instance, let us consider St. Peter's words:

"Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that He might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened in the spirit, by which [two experiences—death and resurrection] He preached unto the spirits in prison."—I Peter iii, 18, 19.

This text, said Pastor Russell, has been made the basis for some peculiar presentations. From it some have deduced an intermediate state lasting between death and the resurrection. Others have claimed it as an authority for the doctrine of Purgatory. The difficulty in every case seems to be the failure to remember that the Bible always and everywhere teaches that the dead are really dead, that they know nothing, and that, therefore, it would be impossible to do any preaching to the dead humans. Undoubtedly the theory that people are more alive after they die than when they were alive is responsible for nearly all of the foolish things which we have all at some time professed to believe.

Before dismissing the thought that "spirits in prison" are human spirits, let us note the fact that to say, "human spirits," is an absurdity of itself, because human beings are not spirits and spirit beings are not humans. "Who maketh His angels spirits," is the Scriptural proposition. True, we do sometimes speak of humans as possessing a spirit of life, but by this we merely mean that he possesses the power or energy of life, and the same would be equally true of the lower orders of creation, beasts, fish, fowl, etc.

Again, we sometimes speak of the Church as spirit beings—begotten of the Holy Spirit. Thus the Apostle speaks of the natural man in contrast with the New Creature, a spirit being. To appreciate this statement we must remember that the Church class receives the begetting of the Holy Spirit to the end that, if faithful, they may attain unto a spirit resurrection and become spirit beings, like unto the angels and like to the Redeemer. But we are not spirits yet, except by faith—by hope. However, the context shows that the Apostle had no reference to the Church, either; we were not in prison; we received the Message of salvation through the Apostles.

Spirits Once Disobedient.
The spirits to whom the message was given had proven themselves disobedient, says St. Peter. He even tells us the time of their disobedience, namely, that it was "in the days of Noah, while the ark was preparing." Surely, if noticing these particulars mentioned in the context, no one would be excusable for misunderstanding this Scripture and considering it in any way applicable to humanity of our day or to humanity in general. However, it is helpful to us to learn the full particulars of the matter. What was their disobedience, and when and how were they imprisoned?

Turning to Genesis vi, 1-5, we find there the cause of the disobedience of those angels, who for a time had been permitted to see what they could do for the uplift of humanity, or, rather, permitted to demonstrate that the downward tendency of sin is incurable except in the manner which God has already arranged for through Messiah and His glorious reign of a thousand years.

Instead of those angels helping mankind out of sin they helped themselves into sin, and by so doing they increased the depravity amongst humanity until the astounding record is that "the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thought of his heart was only evil continually." The particular sin of those angels was that when they were granted the privileges of materializing—of taking human bodies for the sake of helping and instructing mankind—they misused this power and took to themselves the daughters of men for wives.

Thus these angels came gradually to prefer to live as men amongst men and to rear earthly families rather than to abide in the condition in which they were created—spirit beings, higher than humans. Not only was this wrong in the sense that it was taking a course in opposition to the Divine arrangement, but it was wrong also because the thing was done for the cultivation and gratification of lust, and it led to their own moral defilement as well as having a baneful influence upon humanity; for we can readily see that for the angels, of superior powers and intelligence, to become leaders in lustful practices would mean a great influence upon mankind toward sin.

We are particularly told that the offspring of this improper union between the angels and the daughters of men were giants, both physically and mentally superior to the fallen human family—"men of renown." And this statement, that they were "men of renown," was at a time when manhood's estate was reached at a hundred years, and implies that God did not interfere to hinder or stop the progress of sin for perhaps several centuries. In the meantime the race had become so corrupt that apparently only Noah and his family were uncontaminated—all others had more or less come under the influence, directly or indirectly, of these fallen angels or their giant sons. Hence, of Noah it was written (not that he was a perfect man, but) "Now Noah was perfect in his generation" (uncontaminated) and his family apparently the same. Hence these alone were saved in the ark, while all the remainder, more or less contaminated, were destroyed by the flood.

"In Chains of Darkness."
It was then and there that God imprisoned those spirits, angels, who kept not their first estate, and are therefore called fallen angels, devils, demons. They were not imprisoned in some far-off world called hell, nor are they engaged there in stoking fires for the torture of poor humanity. Following the leading of the Scriptures we find that when the flood came they were not destroyed because, while their fleshly bodies which they assumed might indeed perish, yet they would merely dematerialize, or assume their spirit conditions again.

The record is that God cast them down, that He condemned them to an overthrow—that they might not any longer associate with the holy angels, but must be reserved in tartarus—our earth's atmosphere. Here they were imprisoned, not in a special place, but in the sense of having their liberties restrained, "in chains of darkness." They were no longer permitted to materialize and thus to associate with humanity. These things are distinctly told us by St. Jude and St. Peter (Jude G; II Peter ii, 4, 5)—an explanation in full harmony with the Genesis account of their fall.

Once Disobedient—Still Disobedient.
We of course cannot know that all of those fallen angels are still in a disloyal condition of heart. On the contrary, in harmony with our text, we may suppose that some of these fallen angels have since repented of their wrong course and it would be none too strong a way to state the matter—that any such repentant ones would surely have terrible experiences as a result. To be obliged to be in close touch and relationship with the more evil and malignant ones and to have knowledge of all their evil designs and efforts would be a terrible experience and, besides this, we may be sure that the rebellious would not hesitate to persecute the repentant ones in every conceivable manner, as they would be lawless, regardless of the Divine will.

On the other hand, the repentant ones would be obliged to restrain themselves and to not render evil for evil, knowing that this would be contrary to the Divine will. In other words, repentant ones amongst those fallen spirits, influenced by the preaching of Jesus or otherwise, would have a kind of purgatorial experience, and the thought calls forth our sympathy.

When imprisoned or cut off from the privilege of materialization, many of the fallen spirits, we know not what proportion, continued their active opposition to God, after the manner of Satan. Hence they are spoken of as his angels, his messengers, his servants and he is spoken of as Beelzebub, the Prince of Demons. Satan, who sinned much earlier than the others, and in a different way, the Scriptures tell us was an angel of a higher rank, or a higher nature, and this superiority of his has made him the Prince or ruler over the hosts of fallen spirits.

Fighting Against God.

The fight of Satan and his fallen angels is against God, against all who are in harmony with Him, against all the regulations of righteousness, and against all the channels and servants whom the Lord may use. St. Paul's words along this line are forceful; he remarks that God's people contend not merely "with flesh and blood," but also

"with wicked spirits in high positions," and the question arises, "Who is sufficient for these things?" The reply is that none is sufficient; without the aid of the Redeemer His church would be quite overcome and vanquished by evil. Likewise, without the Redeemer's aid through His Kingdom, without the binding of Satan, without our Lord's releasing of the world from the bondage of sin and death, there would be no hope of the world's recovery from its present bondage. But with the Apostle we exclaim, "If God be for us, who can be against us?" (Romans viii, 31.)

Through Mediums and Obsessions.

Satan's original plan of attack was to bring our race under his influence by misrepresentation—by putting darkness for light and light for darkness—for instance, the temptation under which Mother Eve fell. Satan there represented himself as Eve's friend, giving her sound advice. He represented God as having a selfish motive behind His command that our first parents should not eat of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. Satan declared that God had told an untruth when He said that the penalty for sin would be death. Satan declared that man cannot die.

And has he not since kept up the same line of falsification? And has he not deceived the whole world upon this very subject? Do not all peoples in every land believe that when a man dies he does not die, but gets more alive—exactly Satan's lie of the first instance? How few have believed God, even amongst His people who truly love Him, and who truly desire to believe the teachings of His Word! We have all been under a kind of "hoodoo." "The god of this world [Satan] hath blinded" our minds on this subject. We are now coming to see that death is the penalty for sin and that the resurrection is the salvation God promised and will provide.

Satan has had powerful allies and servants in the fallen angels, and it is through their persistence that his lie has triumphed over the Divine Word of truth—"Dying, thou shalt die." These fallen spirits have made various manifestations in every land for centuries, and thereby have apparently substantiated the theory that a dead man is more alive than when he was alive. Knowing that mankind will have nothing to do with them if their real personality and represent themselves as our dead friends who desire to speak with us, either directly or through mediums.

A further desire of these angels is to obsess or to get possession of a human being. Being chained or restrained from the privilege of materialization, the next most desirable thing in their estimation is to gain control over a human being and to use his body instead of their own. This is styled obsession, and persons so afflicted to day are sent to an insane asylum where, it is estimated, they constitute at least one half of the entire number. In the days of our Lord these were not mistakenly supposed to be insane, but rightly declared to be obsessed. All remember the New Testament account that our Savior and His Apostles cast out legions of fallen spirits.

How Jesus Preached in Death.

Here arises another question: If Jesus was really dead, as the Scriptures declare, if "He poured out His soul unto death," and "made His soul an offering for sin," and His soul was not raised from the dead until the third day after His crucifixion, how could He in the meantime preach to spirits in prison, or to anybody else? We reply that He could preach in the same way that the Apostle refers to, saying, "He, being dead, yet speaking" (Hebrews xi, 4); and again, in the same way that the blood of Abel is said to have cried to God—figuratively. Of one thing we are sure, namely, that Jesus gave no oral address while He was dead. He preached in the way we sometimes refer to when we say, "Actions speak louder than words."

It was the great object lesson which the fallen angels saw that constituted to them the great sermon that gave them a ground for hope. On several occasions the fallen spirits, when commanded to come out of human beings, declared that they knew Jesus. In the long ago they had known Him, when, as the Only Begotten of the Father, and His Representative, He had created them and all things that are made, and was also the mouthpiece for all Divine orders and regulations. They realized that He had come into the world to be its Redeemer; they perceived the great stoop that He had made from His lofty position on the heavenly plane to the servant position on the human plane. They admired His loyalty and faithfulness to God, but doubtless believed Him to be foolish; they never expected Him to arise from the dead. But when they perceived His resurrection on the third day to glory, honor and immortality, "far above angels, principalities and powers and every name that is named," His sermon to them was complete, namely, that "the wages of sin is death," but that "the gift of God is eternal life." (Romans vi, 23.) And as they realized thus the Power of God and the Love of God for His human creatures, the Apostle's words imply that this constituted to them a message of hope. Perhaps if they would allow full contrition God eventually would have mercy upon them, even as He had had mercy and had provided for humanity.

The lesson is one for all. God's power is Infinite, so is His love. His mercy, His goodness. Nevertheless, every willful sin will have its punishment, a just recompense of reward, and only the willing and obedient shall have the Divine favor and everlasting life. Let each apply the lesson to himself.

The finest Rugs made in America are Whittalls—the finest in everything that goes to make up a perfect Rug. They are the result of a determination on the part of the manufacturer to make the finest floor covering that can be produced in this country—They are of such beauty and charm that their only superiors are hand made orientals and the orientals cost many times as much as they do—These beautiful rugs are named Anglo Persians for they combine the beautiful colorings and patterns of a fine Persian Rug, with the best of Anglo Saxon weaving—The yarns that are used in these rugs are imported from the mountains of Asia and the Hills of Persia, and made with soft silky lusters that can only be found in these Anglo Persian Rugs. The person who seeks the finest of American floor coverings will naturally turn to Anglo Persian when they once see them.

This week we will exhibit in all our windows three qualities of these fine Rugs, and invite a look from everybody interested in fine rugs

LICKING HAS SURVIVOR OF THE SULTANA

The whole world has been shocked by the great loss of life on the ill-fated Titanic. We forget that we suffered a greater loss of life forty-seven years ago last Saturday night, April 27, 1865, by the explosion and fire that caused the destruction of the steamer Sultana seven miles above Memphis, Tenn. There were 2,300 souls aboard the Sultana and nearly the entire list was composed of paroled Union soldiers, eagerly counting the hours that divided them from a reunion with families and friends in their homes in the North.

Licking county has one survivor of this awful disaster. His name is Albert Norris of Granville, Ohio, late infirmity director and brother of our townsman, Mr. E. C. Norris.

Comrade Norris is one of the few remaining old soldiers who still survive the hardships of Andersonville prison-life experience in addition to having floated miles in the Mississippi river before being rescued from his awful experience on the ill-fated Sultana.

"WOMAN'S WORK IS NEVER DONE"

It is the faithful woman in the home, who does the cooking, sweeping, dusting, washing and ironing, ambitious to keep her home as neat as a pin, and often having two or three children who require care and attention, who calls for our sympathy. Overwork is the result. Outraged nature asserts itself in time and female troubles appear.

Such a woman should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the exact medicine they need when their strength is overtaken and female weakness and derangements make life a burden. For nearly forty years it has been the standard remedy for such troubles.

HIKERS FROM HOLLAND IN CITY TODAY

Lieut. Rodriguez and Miss Dora Rodriguez, both from Amsterdam, Holland, are making a trip through every country in the world and arrived in Newark Sunday night. They are walking from Cincinnati to New York.

Mr. Rodriguez, who is a Holland army officer, does not look like a Dutchman but more like a Spaniard, and began his walking trip four years ago. His latest record breaking long distance trips have been from San Francisco to Los Angeles, 500 miles in 8 days and from Portland to Medford, Ore., 229 miles in 5 1-2 days.

Rodriguez is only 24 years old and his sister 17, both are highly educated and speak and write many languages and contribute almost weekly to several leading Holland newspapers.

Miss Rodriguez is a nice looking, real Dutch girl, short, slender though muscular. She has lived for about 7 years in Edinburgh, Scotland, and accompanied her brother to this country about one year and five months ago when they arrived on the "Princess Irene," the ill-fated steamer of the North German Lloyd line.

From here they will go to New York when they will take the ship back to their own country. They make their expenses by lecturing and showing films from the parts of the world which they have visited.

Lieut. Rodriguez and his sister will be seen at the Lyric theatre here this evening and Tuesday evening.

BAD BLOOD CAUSED ABSCESS

How Vinol Saved Mrs. Hall.

It took a dangerous and painful experience to prove to Mrs. Hattie Hall that she had let her health run down in a letter from Schenectady, N. Y. who says she says she was reminded that my system needed renovating and that my blood was out of order, by the fact that an abscess formed in my side a short time ago and required treatment for several weeks.

"Under the regular use of Vinol to enrich and purify my blood and build up my strength, this was soon healed, and my general health very much improved."

Right now is the very best time of year to put your blood in good order by the use of our delicious cod liver and non-remedy without oil. Vinol. It enriches the blood by adding iron and thus frees it from its impurities.

Vinol is wonderfully strengthening and vitalizing for all who are run-down and weak, and we guarantee it to give perfect satisfaction. P. D. Hall, druggist.

FORMER REPORTER MAKING GOOD WITH TRANSIT COMPANY

Saturday a general order was issued by General Manager H. B. Kooser appointing R. C. McKelly of Kansas City general superintendent of the American Refrigerator Transit company with offices in the Century building at St. Louis. The Transit company is a Cold Interest and extends from New York to the Pacific.

Mr. McKelly was a country newspaper reporter eight years ago, leaving that position to assume service as a fruit inspector with the American Refrigerator Transit company. Since that time his rise has been rapid until now he is only one step removed from the head of the corporation which is incorporated for millions. He is a brother of Thomas McKelly of the Central Union Telephone company who is a frequent visitor in this city, where he has many warm friends.

NARROW ESCAPE OF FISHERMEN FROM DROWNING

Four Newark men came near meeting death in a watery grave on Sunday afternoon in Buckeye Lake. They were Wm. Maholm, of the Newark Warehouse and Storage Company, Charles Myers of Pataskala street, Charles Winters of Second street and Robert Rae, the well known musician and late director of the Elk minstrel.

The gentlemen realizing that the closed season for bass fishing, takes place Tuesday evening had chartered a rowboat at the park and left for the lower end of the lake where William Broom had informed them that several schools of bass could be located. The gentlemen fished industriously for several hours and landed several good strings and started for the park.

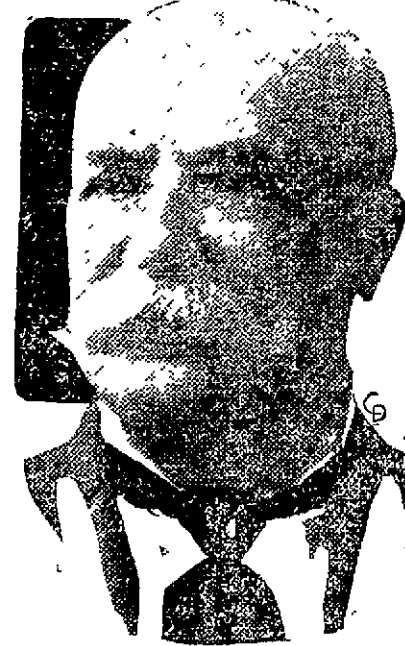

The boat with its four occupants had rounded the bend opposite Thorn Cottage and was lost to view to the pleasure craft on the lake. Suddenly a "C. Q. D." message floated over the water, not a wireless but a human voice. The next message was several in fact, all in unison calling "help, help, our boat is sinking."

Several boats hurried to the rescue and arrived just in time to take the occupants from the fast sinking boat which had filled with water to within a couple of inches of the top, and to pull Robert Rae from the water where he was holding fast to the bow with his head only above the surface of the water.

Mr. Maholm in reciting his experiences stated that Mr. Rae was sitting in the stern of their boat counting their catch for the day and had just made a wager as to the weight when a sudden pull from the oarsman jarred him from his seat and he tumbled off backwards, going down to the bottom. He came up within a few seconds and after he had spat out a quart or so of muddy water called to the three other men to help him quick as he could not swim. They did but in endeavoring to pull him to safety endangered their own lives as their frail craft tipped and shipped half full of water. Mr. Maholm stated that Mr. Rae then asked them to release their hold and leave him to his fate, as he did not want to be responsible for their deaths. He gave Mr. Maholm directions as to what he wished done in case he was not saved and sent a farewell message to Wm. Hohl and Chas. Livingston and then released his hold of the boat.

Messrs. Meyers and Winters grabbed him and endeavored to again pull him aboard, when the craft shipped more water. By that time several power boats were fast approaching, and in a short time had come along side and rescued Mr. Rae and his fellow voyagers. It was a close call for the four men and one that they would not care to have repeated for if there had been no other boats on the lake they might have all been drowned.

Both Messrs. Rae and Maholm state that any time they are ever caught going fishing in the future it will be in a tub or else in a market stall where silver bait can be used.

Jacob H. Gallinger.

Senator Jacob H. Gallinger led the Taft forces to victory in the recent New Hampshire primaries. It was by no means Gallinger's first victory. He hasn't known defeat since he ran for Congress "way back in the eighties." He was a member of the lower House two terms; then the New Hampshire legislature gave him a seat in the United States Senate. There he has remained for twenty-one years, and by reason of his ability and long service is now one of the most powerful members of the highest chamber. Senator Gallinger was born on a farm in Ontario, Canada, in 1837. He studied medicine and was graduated in 1859. Coming to the United States, he soon entered the medical arena and abandoned medicine.

Home Testimony Convinces

Many Newark sufferers from Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuritis testify that they have found "Nurito" so effective as an antidote to uric acid that almost immediate relief and complete banishment of pain has been secured. What is better to comfort our Rheumatism than this home testimony.

Thousands of old-time Rheumatism are now in the best of health after using "Nurito."

Its satisfied users are its best advertisers—pretty good advertisers, too! "Come, Frank D. Hall, the druggist, get a $1 box of "Nurito," a physician's prescription — not a patent medicine—that contains neither Opium nor Narcotics, and if it doesn't relieve you your money will be refunded."
